RIDOUT.—In sad but loving remembrance of my dear husband, ROBERT T. RIDOUT, who died at Bracey, Va., November 19, 1912.

You are happy with the angels,
free from all your grief and care;
My poor heart is sad and broken,
Oh, I wish that I was there!

But 'twas God that separated us, He who doeth all things well; And I pray I soon may meet you, Where we may never say farewell. BY HIS INVALID WIFE.

CRANNIS.—In memory of MARTIN
PHILIP CRANNIS, who was accidentally killed while hunting on November 19, 1895.

The mirror of memory still reflects his beloved face, and the whispering of the autumn evenings bring back recollections of his gentle voice, the warm clasp of his haid, and the kindliness of his loving heart.
